

Private Residence

Chatham, New York

Glass sun room addition to a large contemporary home on a hilltop. The room contains a completely enclosed pond and water feature. It is equipped with specialized sun control and ventilation systems to maintain comfortable temperatures through natural ventilation. The slate finished floor provides radiant heating. Structural roof trusses were specially designed to minimize weight and enhance the visual effect of a light, open support system.