

Roosevelt Bath House

Saratoga Springs, New York

architecture+ was responsible for the exterior preservation and interior restoration and renovation of these two nationally-listed historic mineral bathhouses. Scenes from Robert Redford's movie The Horse Whisperer were shot on site. Large portions of the facility were significantly reconfigured while retaining the feel and quality of the existing building.

In addition to mineral spring baths, our design features state-of-the-art exercise and fitness facilities, a new enclosed pool pavilion in the courtyard, and a small garden cafe.